V2R Group President To Address World Bank Annual Conference

ORLANDO, FL (FEBRUARY 5, 2008) – Today, V2R Group President Erik Sander was invited by the World Bank to address the upcoming Annual Bank Conference on Development Economics to be held June 2008 in Cape Town, South Africa. The conference will bring together over 500 global thought leaders in economics, politics and technology to focus on three broad themes: Globalization, Investment and Growth; Human Development for Equitable Growth; and the Political Economy of Shared Growth. The conference is being jointly organized and hosted by the World Bank and the National Treasury of South Africa.

Mr. Sander has been asked to provide his insights during a session on global trends and impacts of higher education and high-tech industry. Other sessions will focus on globally significant areas such as trade and investment, human development, and the political economy of shared growth.

Over the past few years, this conference has been closely linked to the international agenda, contributing ideas on the G8 Summit, the European Union Presidency and other global events. The conference has brought together researchers, policy makers, students, private sector representatives, and prominent leaders from all over the world, among them: the Prime Ministers of France, Belgium and Norway, the President of the EU Commission, Ministers, EU Commissioners, Nobel Prize laureates, outstanding business leaders and representatives of civil society.

According to Sander, “I’m humbled to have been invited to participate in this preeminent conference and address world leaders who drive the global agenda of higher education and high tech industry. In organizing this conference and assembling such an august group of international thought leaders, the World Bank and National Treasury of South Africa are working together to assure that higher education and industry best serve current and future generations across the globe”

About the World Bank

The World Bank is a vital source of financial and technical assistance to developing countries around the world. The World Bank is not a bank in the common sense. It is made up of two unique development institutions owned by 185 member countries—the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development (IBRD) and the International Development Association (IDA). Each institution plays a different but supportive role in the World Bank's mission of global poverty reduction and the improvement of living standards. The IBRD focuses on middle income and creditworthy poor countries, while IDA focuses on the poorest countries in the world. For more information: www.worldbank.org.
